

At Crafts Hall

The highest possible quality for the lowest consistent cost, is the merchandising ideal upon which the House of Crafts has been built from its conception early in 1907.

Our Pianos and Player-Pianos are creations, not copies. We gladly demonstrate any of them.

Our prices are fixed by the actual quality of the instrument, and that price is the same to everybody everywhere.

There is but a small difference between our cash and time price, so that if you do not care to invest the cash, and wish to deal with us on the time payment plan, it will cost you but 6 per cent for the actual time you require, and that only on the unpaid balance.

Why not visit the one-price establishment?

ONLY SECOND HOLDER OF CERTAIN DUKEDOMS

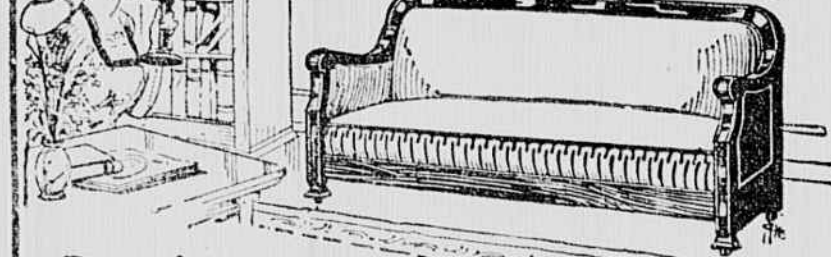

Don Adolfo Ruspoli Passes Away in Paris at Advanced Age of 92 Years.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENAY. NAPOLÉONIC wars, at the beginning of the nineteenth century, appear now so remote that it is difficult to realize that old Don Adolfo Ruspoli, who has just passed away in Paris, at the advanced age of ninety-two, was but the second holder of the Spanish dukedoms of La Alcudia and of Sueca, bestowed in 1792 upon his maternal grandfather, Manuel Godoy, Prince of the Peace.

The latter played a very important role in the history not only of Spain, but also in that of Spanish America, at the close of the eighteenth century, as the favorite of Queen Louise of Spain. Through her he obtained a complete mastery over her weak-minded husband, Charles IV., who raised him from the ranks of private in the royal bodyguard, in the space of less than eight years, to the post of Prime Minister. It was in 1793 that he received from the King the title of Prince of the Peace, on the signature

MOST POPULAR CONDUCTOR

CAPTAIN T. J. HEWLETT.

Captain Hewlett is carrying the solid silver lantern won by him in the recent contest to decide who is the most popular railroad conductor running into or out of Richmond.

The lantern was offered by The Times-Dispatch, and Captain Hewlett won by 1,235 votes.

Captain Hewlett is a conductor on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, and runs on the James River Division. He is married, and has a family residing in Richmond at 317 Thirty-second Street.

He has been in the employ of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway for thirty-three years, and has been a conductor for thirty-two years, running twelve years on the main line between Old Point and Clifton Forge and twenty years on the James River Division.

He enjoys the friendship and esteem of the officials of the Chesapeake and Ohio road and of his associates on the road.

Captain Hewlett is a member of the Order of Railway Conductors.

CARD FROM CAPT. HEWLETT

Richmond, Va., March 14, 1914.

To My Friends:

The very great number of votes cast in the contest for the silver lantern, in which my friends won, makes it impossible for me to thank them all in person or by letter, but I must tell them, in this way at least, how proud and grateful I am for their generous friendship and support. Their appreciation of my efforts to do my full duty to them and to the travelling public is a rich reward for the many dangers and hardships of a conductor's life, and I thank them from the bottom of my heart.

To my fellow-workers in the railway service, to my friends that I know personally, and to those friends, in even greater number, with whom I have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance, again I give you my heartfelt thanks.

Respectfully,

T. J. HEWLETT.

of the treaty of Basle. A year later, although it was generally understood that he had a wife living, in the person of Dona Josefa Tado, he married Dona Maria Theresa de Bourbon, a morganatic daughter of the King's brother, Luis.

For the next few years Godoy remained at the head of affairs in Spain, not only as Premier, but also as grand admiral, generalissimo and virtual dictator, overwhelmed with honors and riches by the King and Queen, and constantly engaged in intrigues with the various foreign powers. Finally, when in the face of the French invasion, he was discovered to be preparing for flight, with the King and Queen, to Mexico, he was seized at Aranjuez by the mob and almost killed, but was rescued by the French, and allowed to leave the kingdom.

Afterwards he rejoined Charles IV. and Queen Louise at Rome, where he remained until the former's death, in 1819. The rest of his life was passed in poverty and obscurity.

King Ferdinand, immediately on obtaining possession of the throne of Spain, manifested his hatred of his mother's favorite, by depriving him of all his titles and estates, and on leaving Rome Godoy took up his residence in Paris, residing in a tiny little apartment near the Opera, where he was known by the name of "Monsieur Manuel," dependent upon a small annuity settled upon him by King Louis Philippe of France. True, Queen Isabella II. had in 1845, at the instance of King Louis Philippe and of her brother-in-law, the late Duc de Montpensier, signed a decree restoring to Godoy all his titles, and ordering the restoration of his property. But the actual possessors of his estates knew well how by tedious delays and circumlocutions of the Spanish law, to postpone from month to month the fulfillment of the order until after his death, which took place in 1851.

Godoy lies buried in that section of the great Pere La Chaise Cemetery in Paris known as the Spaniards' Island, near the tomb of Garcia, the great tenor. The small, raised-in-grave is adorned by a stone tablet, on which are briefly inscribed the words: "Don Manuel Godoy, Prince of the Peace, and Duke of Alcudia."

His eldest daughter married Don

Camille Ruspoli, of Rome, head of a junior branch of the old Italian princely house of that name. She, however, was at dangers' drawn with her father, and declined to contribute a single cent towards his maintenance. It was her eldest son, Don Adolfo Ruspoli, who has just passed away, who inherited his grandfather's honors, and who was successful in recovering at least a portion of the estates in Spain.

While the late Don Adolfo was content to take up his grandfather's titles of Duke of La Alcudia and of Sueca, he preferred to allow the title of Prince of the Peace to remain in abeyance, being to the oldium with which it is invested to this day in the history of Spain.

For the treaty of Basle, for which it was conferred upon Manuel Godoy, was regarded by the nation as a particularly infamous betrayal of its interests, and served to render still

OUCH! PAIN, PAIN, RUB RHEUMATISM

Rub pain right out of joints and muscles with a small trial bottle of old St. Jacobs Oil.

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drinking! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the "tender spot," and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and cannot burn the skin.

Lumber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacobs Oil" has cured millions of rheumatism sufferers in the last half century, and is just as good for sprains, neuritis, lumbago, backache, sciatica and swellings.—Advertisement.

more intense the popular execration in which Godoy was held, as the favorite of Queen Louise.

It is this execration that has blinded Spaniards to the very real services which Godoy rendered to the country. Thus, while at the head of the government, he founded the Royal Medical College at Madrid, which put an end to the reign of quacks and barbersurgeons. He organized asylums for the care of foundlings and for the relief of the deaf and dumb, he created an institute of veterinary surgery, until then wholly unknown, and may be said to have initiated the system of technical education.

It is reported, both in Paris and in Madrid, that the eldest son and heir of the late Don Adolfo, not content with inheriting his father's dukedoms of Alcudia and of Sueca, contemplates reviving his great-grandfather's title of Prince of the Peace. But I venture to doubt the fact, since it is difficult to believe that he would wish to emphasize his descent from one of the most generally detested statesmen in the annals of Spain.

The new duke makes his home at Madrid, in the Barquillo Street, has been twice married, and has three children by his first wife, including a ten-year-old son and heir. The duke's mother was a member of the illustrious ducal house of Medina Sidonia, a descendant of that duke of the same name who commanded the Spanish Armada, in the reign of Philip II., in his war against his sister-in-law, Queen Elizabeth of England.

Emperor Francis Joseph has appointed Count Karl Lanckoronski, to the office of grand chamberlain of the court of Vienna, in the place of the late Baron Leopold Gudenus. The count, whose wife is a sister of Prince Lichnowsky, the German ambassador in England, is the head of one of the oldest houses of the Polish aristocracy, his title of Count of the Holy Roman Empire dating from 1355. The Lanckoronskis played a very important role in the history of Poland from the fourteenth to the beginning of the nineteenth century, and the new grand chamberlain of the court of Vienna, besides owning large estates in Galicia and in Lower Austria, also has extensive property in Russian Poland, which has been in the possession of his family for several hundreds of years.

Knight of the Order of the Golden Fleece, and a member of the Privy Council, the count is the moving spirit and president of all sorts of art and history societies, besides being vice-president of the Imperial Academy of Sciences of Austria, and is one of those great nobles who enjoys in a very marked degree the good will of the artistic and scientific world of the dual empire. He may be said to have inherited his tastes from his father, who was for many years director-general of all the imperial theatres and opera houses, and the friend and patron of the leading composers and playwrights of the nineteenth century.

The new grand chamberlain has been three times married. His first matrimonial alliance, with Countess Marie Salm, was annulled, both by the Austrian tribunals and by the Roman Catholic Church. He lost his second wife, Countess Francisca Attens by death, and it was after her demise that he secured the hand of Countess Marguerite Lichnowsky.

V. M. I. NOTES

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Lexington, Va., March 14.—Cadet Christian, of Lynchburg, who has been seriously ill in the institute hospital, is rapidly recovering.

Miss Louise Robinson, of Norfolk, is the guest of Miss Lucy Patton, in Lexington.

In the severe windstorm which visited Lexington on Monday, a large part of the roof of the cadet barracks was blown off. A gang of carpenters was set to work on Tuesday and the damage soon repaired.

Cadet J. Smith, who has been in the hospital for several days as a result of having fallen in the pond when E. H. Gary was drowned, has returned to duty.

Owing to the continued bad weather, the drills have practically been abandoned for the present. The entire battalion has been put through a thorough course on the indoor gallery range, and is now ready for the work on the range just as soon as spring opens up. When the weather permits Captain Mayo, who has charge of the topography squad, has been doing some very satisfactory road sketching with the first class privates. Parade was held on Tuesday for the first time in several weeks.

MR. OR MRS. DYSPEPTIC! GET YOUR STOMACH RIGHT—PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

In five minutes! Time it! No indigestion, gas, sourness, belching.

"Really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that's just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction, or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.—Advertisement.
